Step 2: Each team selects a leader to report answers.

Step 3: One team is randomly selected to go first. The team leader picks the question.

Step 4: Gamemaster (person controlling game on computer) selects question and host reads it aloud.

Step 5: Each team has 10 seconds to deliberate. The team leader records the team's answer on the whiteboard in the form of a question (i.e. What is storm surge?) If the team is unsure of answer, they have the option to write 'PASS' without penalty.

Step 6: At the end of the ten seconds, the team leaders simultaneously reveal their boards.

Step 7: The game master then reveals the correct answer and using the scorekeeper on the game, adds or deducts points from the teams' total. Teams who answered 'PASS' neither gain nor lose points. The host reads the answer and the accompanying fact.

Step 7: The next team selects the next question.

Step 8: Repeat steps 4-7 until the board is clear.

FINAL JEOPARDY
(Teams with zero or negative points are eliminated before Final Jeopardy)

Step 9: Each team secretly makes a wager on how much they will bet on the final jeopardy question. Team leader records the wager on the bottom of the white board and shows it to game-master.

Step 10: Host records team wagers, then reads question aloud.

Step 11: Team has one full minute to deliberate.

Step 12: After deliberation, team leader writes team answer on the top of the white board.

Step 13: After full minute has elapsed, the host asks each team to individually reveal their answer. Host tells them whether they are right or wrong then shows how many points they lost or gained based on their wager.

Step 14: Team with the most points wins the game.
